

YICGG 2013 Kicked Off In Fudan University

By Fu Dan

The 5th Youth Innovative Competition Global Governance (YICGG 2013), China's largest worldly students' event has been recently kicked off in Fudan University. With the theme being "Save the World, Save the Future—we, the People in the Green Wave", the event is open for enrollment and solicitation of innovative plans for global governance. College students from worldwide can register on the website www.cgg.fudan.edu.cn individually or in teams for the competition and present their innovative solutions for a certain problem of global governance.

YICGG was initiated by Fudan University and the United Nations Development Program in 2007. This is the first global competition initiated by a Chinese university to address global governance by soliciting innovative ideas from college students worldwide. It is also the largest global event for students in China.

The event has been held for four times with more than 300 participants from over 20 countries and regions including China, the United States, Japan, Italy and Georgia, etc. The event has successfully solicited many constructive proposals on issues like global governance, human future and environmental protection, etc. Some of the proposals have been presented to related departments of the United Nations for reference.

YICGG is mostly organized and participated by students. The competition has attracted huge feedback from students globally and is praised to be academic "Olympics" for the youth in the area of global governance. As learned, the primary purpose of setting up YICGG was to provide a platform for young students to get together, communicate and grow together, and give their voices and opinions about key questions and solutions for global governance.

YICGG 2013, the 5th in the row, will be organized by Fudan University, one of the initiators. The School of International Relationship and Public Affairs will take care of the organizational work. Huiyin Group based in Shanghai has provided full support to the event this year and has donated RMB500,000 to Fudan University and the organizing committee.

YICGG 2013 will go in four different stages.

Stage I is for participants from worldwide to select public affairs that is related to the theme of the competition, design and present innovative and proactive treatment proposals. The experts' committee of the competition will review each of the proposals and select the first round of winners by May this year.

The three remaining stages will be carried out in Fudan University in July this year. Stage II is for the round of winners to come to Fudan with their proposals for exhibition and issuance of their proposals. At this stage, the organizing committee of the competition will invite authoritative scholars from home and abroad to do on-the-spot appraisal and select "Best Innovative Proposals".

Stage III and Stage IV are the most spectacular part of YICGG: In Stage III, all participants will set up "World Team" by drawing lots, breaking the original team and national boundaries according to YICGG rules. The new teams will design innovative, feasible and effective proposals on a specific topic assigned by the organizing committee within a set period of time.

The fourth stage will for the first time adopt the most popular roundtable discussion "World Café". All the worldly teams will carry out roundtable discussion, five people on each team, at a set time limit. As ruled, team members at each table will take their turn to move to another table and join the discussion for each hour.

"The Most Valuable Project" will be elected through the "World Team" and "World Café" processes. "The Best Innovative Proposal" and "The Most Valuable Project" will be presented to related departments of the United Nations by the organizer for reference after final and feasible plans and reports are developed through improvement.

Go to Certified Doctors to Purchase Tonic Prescription

By Ying Shenyi & Feng Yuejing

Tonic prescriptions have been increasingly popular in recent years. It is not rare to see the hustle-bustle scenery of group purchase for tonic prescriptions.

Yangpu District Health Supervision Office, by joining Yangpu

District Food & Drug Administration, has inspected two clinics and one outpatient department of Chinese traditional medicine. The purpose was to examine the qualification of practitioners, quality of the prescriptions, standards for the production process of the tonic prescriptions so as to ensure the market order and protect people's health.

While regulating the tonic market within its prefecture, related principal of Yangpu District Health Supervision Office alerted that people should be very cautious when purchase the prescription, and go to the certified doctors.

Wujiaochang Town Puts Up 12 LED Screens for Locals

By Mao Haiping

"On the eve of the Spring Festival, please take safety measures to prevent fire and thefts." These are the warm reminders shown on the electronic displays that have newly put up in more than 10 residential quarters like Jintiyuan.

As learned, as one of the projects that Wujiaochang Town Government has been doing for people's benefits, the civil engineering division of the government installed 12 LED screens in 11 residential quarters of public apartment buildings and Zhayin Village in the end of November 2012.

"LED will be used to publish information that is closely related with local people's lives for their benefits so that people will learn the information in the first instance," said cadres of residents' committee. The LED is easy to operate and can store huge amount of information. Furthermore, it can reduce the noise pollution from klaxons and improve their working efficiency.

Local residents also said that they can learn the information of their residential complexes from the LED.

Yangpu Sets Up Charity Materials Dispatch Center

By Zong He

Yangpu has newly set up a dispatch & distribution center for charity materials so as to better consolidate social resources and collect donations in better orders. The purpose is to make best use of all the materials and benefit the people.

To convenience residents' donation in the neighborhood, Yangpu District has so far set up 71 regular spots to receive donations in all neighborhood communities, towns, Fudan University, Tongji University, etc. since 2004. Some neighborhoods and towns have even set up charity supermarkets on the basis of regular spots to receive donations.

To better consolidate social resources and collect donated materials in good order, Yangpu District has set up this Charity Materials Dispatch & Distribution Center so as to make best use of these materials and benefit the people. The district has also trusted "I Love My Family", a non-governmental service center for management.

The center builds up a system for donation collection, categorization, dispatch & distribution, statistics, etc. by relying on regular donation spots. The purpose is to promote the standard, frequent, effective and sustainable development of donation work and encourage more people and enterprises to be increasingly involved in charity activities and donation.

Tongji Wins Title of "Top 100 University Websites in China"

By Tongji

Tongji University has won the title of "Top 100 University Websites in China" at the 5th National Top 100 University Websites Appraisal which has just dropped its curtain.

The website of Tongji University, www.tongji.edu.cn, was revised thoroughly in May 2012. While sustaining the basis to demonstrate the deep and rich culture accumulated for over one century and highlight the image spreading of the school, the website has further optimized its layout. The "human-oriented" concept has been well stressed while actual demands of different populations have been taken into consideration.

Campus information resources have been further tapped and consolidated. It has added the second-tier columns for readers: students, teachers, candidates and alumni. The service function has been enhanced. The home page of the website has highlighted the communication function, enhanced the richness and artistic quality of news expression forms. Images, captions, video and media focuses have been added to the homepage, which has generated the enhanced interaction effect of texts, images and video.
